Late Foreign Intelligence.

From the New-York Commercial Advertiser April 24.]

We stopped our press yesterday afternoon to announce the arrival from Liverpool of the ships Ann Maria, captain Waite, in 40 days, and Juno, captain Rathbone, in 36—furnishing us with London papers to the 13th and Liverpool to the 15th March.

The Royal assent was given, on the 4th of March, to the Bill for the suspension of the Habeas Corpus.

On the 1st of March, a serious riot took place at Ballina, (Ireland) in consequence of the populace attempting to stop a quantity of oatmeal cars, which were on the way to Sligo. The Military fired several rounds; three of the rioters were killed and about 20 wounded. On the 2d of March, "Galway presented a most dreadful scene;" the rioters broke the Windows, Sashes, Doors, &c. of every store in the town

Talleyrand, Grand Chamberlain of France, resumed his services on the 2d of March.

An article from Manchester, dated March 11, gives an account of a meeting there on the 3d inst. who agreed to adjourn to the Monday following, and proceed to London with a petition to the Prince Regent. Aware of what was going on, the proper authorities had taken the necessary precautions. At the time appointed for the meeting, crowds flocked into town from all directions. A stage was erected, and the harangu. commenced, but before they began their march, the orators and leaders were seized and imprisoned. Others were seized by the soldiers, and sent to prison. In some of their knapsacks were found large knives. The meeting is said to have consisted of 30.000, and there had arrived in the course of the day not less than 70,000 individuals. Those who eluded the soldiers by taking obscure routs, succeeded in penetrating to the bridge of Stockport; here they were encountered by a troop of the Life Guards, and the Prince Regent's yeomanry. No attempt was made to force the bridge, but many threw themselves into the river, and crossed it where it was fordable. Two hundred were apprehended some of whom had provided themselves with a blanket and a few days provisions.

The London papers are filled with accounts of the detection of plots and conspiracies in every part of the kindgdom.

The following account of the execution of Cashman, one of the Spa-fields rioters, is taken from the London Star, of March 12th.

Execution of Cashman.

A considerable crowd of people continued nearly the whole of yesterday evening, viewing the preparations making in Skinner street, for the execution of Cashman, the sailor, condemned for being concerned with others in stealing fire arms during the riots on the 2d of December last, from the shop of Mr. Beckwith, gun maker, in that street, and in front of which the execution was ordered to take place. A very large area was formed by posts sunk in the ground and connected with iron chains, and the platform was erected in the innermost part. All the streets and avenues leading to the place were also barricadoed, to prevent the access of carriages or horses. The workmen, in the course of these operations, were assailed with much groaning and hissing from the multitude.

The unfortunate convict took his leave of his friends during yesterday afternoon with great composure. He said he had faced death in his country's cause too often to fear it in any shape. In a subsequent interview with Mr. Devereaux, the Roman Catholic Priest, he expressed himself much satisfied at the prospect he had of being in a few hours released from a world of trial and of suffering

At a very early hour this morning, great numbers of people began to flock from all quarters to the scene of execution The enclosed space between the chains and the platform was filled wih constables; the chains were also lined with constables and soldiers, and no person was permitted to go beyond them. At ten minutes before eight the awful solemnity commenced.—The unfortunate criminal was brought forth from the debtors' door, Newgate, and placed on a cart, in the usual manner, between the executioner and his assistant.—The two sheriffs, in their carriages, took their stations, one in advance, and the other behind the cart, attended by the marshalmen and other city officers. The procession then moved onwards to Skinner street. The criminal was dressed in a blue jacket and white trowsers, and displayed a very bold demeanor.

On arriving at the platform, he descended from the cart, and mounted with a firm step. Turning round to the multitude, he addressed them in a few mild and incoherent expressions, repeatedly exclaiming that "he died a murdered man." On the executioner attempting to put the cap over his face, Cashman pushed him away and declared that he would die with his face uncovered like a true British tar. The crowd on hearing this began cheering on all sides and continued for some minutes. Every thing being at last ready, the unhappy man was launched into eternity. No sign of fear ever escaped him, and he seemed to die without a struggle.

The body having been suspended the usual time, was cut down at nine o'clock, and carried back in a shell to Newgate, to be given to his relations for interment.

Detachments of horse and foot, were stationed during the whole morning, in Gray's Inn-lane, in Blackfriar's-road and other parts of the vicinity, to be ready in case of disturbance; but we are happy to say that nothing occurred to require their interference. The multitude, though not perhaps so decorous as on other occasions, dispersed in quietness, as soon as the execution was over.

The act for suspending the Habeas Corpus Act, after a preamble in the following words—"Whereas a traitorous conspiracy has been formed, for the purpose of overthrowing, by means of a general insurrection, the established government, laws, and constitution of this kingdom; and whereas designs and parties of a treasonable and highly dangerous nature are now carrying on in the metropolis, and in many other parts of Great Britian," proceeds to enact that for the better preservation of the person of the king and prince regent, and the peace of the kingdom, all persons imprisoned at the time of the passing of the act, or after, in that part of the kingdom called Great Britian, by warrant of the Privy Council, or any of the Secretaries of State, for high treason, or treasonable practices, shall be detained in safe custody, without bail or mainprize, until the 1st day of July next, and until that day no judge or justice of the peace, shall bail, or try such person, without order from the Privy Council. The act then expressly suspends the "act for preventing wrongous imprisonment," &c. made in 1701, for the period above mentioned, and among some other provisions requires that persons imprisoned for the causes mentioned shall be kept separate, and prevented from communicating with one another.

PARIS, Feb. 15.

On Saturday last, Mrs. Robert Patterson, with her two sisters, were presented to the King. These ladies are nieces of the late celebrated Arch-Bishop of Baltimore. They were received by his majesty and their royal highnesses the Duke and Duchess D Angouleme. His majesty thanked the ladies for the attention shewn by their family to those unfortunate Frenchmen who were obliged to take refuge in America, during the revolution in France.

BALTIMORE, April 26.

IMPORTANT NEWS.

A gentleman of respectability has reached town, on his way from Norfolk to the seat of government, with the important intelligence of a REVOLUTION in Brazil, South America.

It is stated that the revolt was sudden and complete—the army joining the people, against the royal government:—With the loss of only twelve lives.

Our informant does not state what had become of the King of Portugal and Brazil.

ALBANY, April 15.—Capt. Peirce, of the U. S. army, arrived in this city on Friday, from Fort Michilimackinak, which is situated at the head of Lake Huron and at the entrance of Lake Michigan. He left the fort on the 11th of March, on foot with a soldier and an Indian guide—and arrived in 14 days at Detroit, a distance of 450 miles, in the boisterous month of March. He undertook this bold and hazardous enterprise, in contempt of the dangers and fatigues attending it, in opposition to the advice of his brother officers.—Capt. Pierce coasted the south shore of Huron on the ice to Sagara bay, thence up the Sagara river 21 miles, thence steering a southeast direction, taking an Indian tract, through the wilderness, crossing the rivers Trent and Huron to Detroit, then to Buffaloe, also on foot.

Capt. P. represents the lands on the Sagara, of an excellent quality, and most beautifully situate; the river bold and navigable for 21 miles, with large prairies from 4 to 6 miles deep. From Sagara to Flint river, 15 miles, a level country, lands excellent and well timbered: from thence to Flint river, a wavering country, not broken, nor high hills: from thence to the river Huron, 30 miles from Detroit, the face of the country and soil very much resemble that of the county of Cayuga, in this state, principally cloathed with Oak, a very open countr, and no underwood, interspersed with small beautiful lakes, abounding in fish of a superior quality; from Huron to Detroit, generally a low flat country, susceptible of being drained and cultivated, the soil deep and rich.

HARTFORD, April 22.

The anniversary of the Assylum for the Deaf and Dumb established in this city, was first commemorated on Sunday evening, in the brick meeting-house. The service was opened by the Rev. Mr. Flint, by reading a portion of scripture from Isaiah, which was followed by a short and appropriate address expressive of the occasion. A fervent prayer to the throne of grace by the same gentleman, prepared the minds of the congregation for the Sermon, which was then delivered by the Rev. Mr. Gallaudet, the Principal in the institution.—We have neither time nor ability to do justice to this performance. It will gratify the audience and the public however, to be informed that they will probably see it in print. The profound silence of a numerous audience attentive to catch each syllable that was uttered—the falling tear excited by a religious sympathy for the afflicted, bore testimony to its merit. A group of these unfortunates whose relief is the object of the institution, were seated in front of the pulpit The silence of these afflicted ones, contrasted with that produced by intellectual entertainment, must excite our sensibility to deeds of charity. A prayer, by the Rev. Mr. Cushman, imploring the blessing of Heaven upon the institution, edified and concluded the service. We cannot conclude these remarks without testifying our admiration of those excellent Hymns composed for the occasion, by a young Lady of this city, whose literary fame is already well known. The style with which the hymns were performed by the singers, was never surpassed by that excellent choir.

INTERESTING LAW CASE.

The world is already acquainted with the case and character of Mr. Andrew Broadlus, of Caroline County—a man of consummate eloquence in his calling. Two or three years ago, he wedded a lady, who was a sister of his first wife. This excited much conversation at the time, and the propriety of the law, which forbid it, was variously and seriously canvassed.—The matter was brought into the publick papers; and finally at the instance of some persons, a bill was filed by the attorney general of the state, before the court of Chancery for this district. The result of that investigation is given in the following statement.—"You will perceive (said the gentleman who handed it for publication) that there was no objection to the Act of Assembly, so far as it restrained marriages within certain degrees; nor to the power of the legislature, to confer jurisdiction of such cases, on the courts of Chancery: but the objection went to the mode of trial, and upon that ground, the jurisdiction was denied: had the legislature, in conferring jurisdiction upon the court of Chancery, exempted the defendants from any prosecution, on account of their answering, and left it with the court, to declare the nullity of such marriages, and to execute its sentence, upon the principles of the court, there could have been no objection to the Act."

TUESDAY, MAY 6, 1817.

We have received No. 1, signed "A Federalist," on the subject of the next governor. We have no fault to find with the style of the communication—in this point of view we consider it respectable, and worthy of insertion; but, as to the matter, if the author did not assert that he is a Federalist, we certainly should have deemed it the effusion of a disciple of quite another school of politicians; however, be this as it may, "it comes in such a questionable shape" that we must decline its publication. If the writer really is what he states himself to be, we shall be happy to hear from him, provided his subject be as orthodox, as his manner is decent.

The foreign news which we publish to day is highly interesting. and proves that an alarming state of excitement prevails among a portion, and it would seem a large one, of the English nation.

We regret to announce the death of THOMAS P. GROSVENOR, Esq. lately a representative in congress from New York. He died at the seat of Judge Hanson, in Maryland, on the 25th ultimo, in the 36th year of his age. He had been for some years a prominent member of the Federal party in the House of Representatives, and was distinguished by a manly eloquence & a quick discernment, which rendered him an able debater and a formidable opponent.

General L'Allemand, who negotiated the reception of the Emperor Napoleon on board the Bellerophon, capt Maitland, and who accompanied him to England, has arrived in Boston from Smyrna.

We have the pleasure to state, says the Philadelphia Gazette, that advices from Mr. Sargeant have been received by the Bank of the United States, in which he communicates the pleasing fact that he has completely succeeded in the object of his mission to London, which our readers will recollect, was to obtain a loan or purchase of 10 millions of Specie.

A letter from New Orleans of the 29th March, states, that the late tumults had blown over. A Grand Jury who had been impannelled on the 28th to pass upon the offences charged against the assailants of the British ship, had returned into court without finding bills for any of the several offences which had been alledged.

A very great diversity of opinion prevails in every description of the community with respect to the comparative merits of the quarrel, but the most sober and dispassionate of each, see nearly an equal cause of complaint on both sides.

Mr Farina, a Neapolitan gentleman, is now exhibiting in Newport R. I. an interesting collection of ancient paintings by celebrated masters of the Italian School—The lovers of the fine arts are much indebted to the courtesy of Commodore Perry, who freely gave M Farina a passage in the Java from to Gibraltar Newport.

AMERICAN FLAG—After the 4th day of July next, the American National Flag, will consist of Thirteen Stripes and Twenty Stars. This number is to be continued until other new States are admitted into the Union: when a Star is to be added for each new State. The Thirteen Stripes are to be permanent. There are now Twenty States in the American Union.

By the Pacific, arrived at New York, the editors of the Gazette, have received London dates to March 28th.

It appears from the London papers that some hostile news had been received over land from Algeirs, which created a rumour that Lord Exmouth was to be sent out to give the Dey warning.

Tranquility appeared to be restored in England.

The Importer momently expected from Liverpool, has on board the famous William Cobbett and his two sons. Cobbett had been concealed several days previous to his embarkation for America.

The Morning Chronicle contains a correspondence between Cobbett and Mr. Lockehart, ending with a challenge from the latter, which was declined by the former.

A number of very disastrous failures have lately taken place in Germany. Among others, the house of Ulman & Co. at Munich, has caused a great sensation; and the banking house of Necker, at Munich, which has stopped payment, absorbs a considerable portion of the fortune of Prince Eugene Beauharnois (late Viceroy of Italy, and son-in law to Bonaparte) whose affairs it managed.

We learn from a London paper, that the Marquis of Camden, who possessed one of the most lucrative sinecures in the gift of the crown, has relinquished the fees of his office, and accepted the regulated salary of £2700 a year. Lord Castlereagh, in the British House of Commons, in reply to a question on this subject, stated, that the Marquis had wished for the opportunity; but considering such offices in the light of vested interests and that the example might be viewed as imperative on others under similar circumstances, he had not communicated his decision until an end had been put to every objection by the example of the Illustrious Personage at the head of the government.

From the Independent Balance.

What a Shad a Herring is.

King Simon seems resolved to terminate his reign with some eclat, by giving us one very judicious appointment.

Thomas Armstrong Esq. to be one of the ass ociate judges of the Court of Common Pleas, of the city and county of Philadelphia.

"Old women we are,
And as great in the chair,
And as fit for the quorum as men;
We can sleep on the bench,
Or examine a wench—
And like them can look grave now and then.
For search the world round, you'll find nine times in ten,
That old women can do just as much as old men."

Melancholy Accident.—On Friday last, Miss Susannah Boyce, daughter of Mr. David Boyce, near Canonsburgh, was killed by the fall of a tree. She was on horseback, in company with her younger sister who was walking; she heard the tree breaking, and told her sister to run back, which she did—at that instant, her horse scaring, threw her off—the tree fell on her, and crushed her in a shocking manner, cutting her head, and breaking her back, arms and legs in several places. She survived only a few minutes.

West. Reg.

On Friday afternoon last, in the district court of the United States, Judge Washington presiding, came on a trial of John Hart, one of the high constables of the city of Philadelphia, for having twice stopped the United States' Mail Stage, for not conforming to the municipal regulations of said city. 1st the Western mail stage, for driving at a speed exceeding 6 miles an hour—and 2dly, the Eastern mail stage, for not having bells attached to the horses, when carried upon runners. The charge of the judge, we understand, was in favour of the defendant, who was consequently acquitted by the jury, on Saturday afternoon. This decision may be viewed as settling a very important question in relation to the right of local authorities to enforce obedience to their wholesome regulations, which have been hitherto in some degree slighted, by those who considered they were acting under paramount authority. Phil. T. Amer.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT.
REVOLUTION IN BRAZIL.

By a gentleman who arrived here in the brig Herald from Barbadoes we are informed, that the Province of Pernambucco, (in Brazil) had revolted, and declared itself independent of the Brazilian Government. Our informant, who is a resident of the town of Pernambucco, which place he left on the 13th March, states, that this revolution was brought about by the concurrence of the military with the citizens on the 6th of March. It commenced at the barracks, where a Colonel of artillery attempted to put some officers of the regiment stationed there, under arrest, one of them ran him through with a sword—and the principal aid de camp of the governor arriving and endeavoring to harangue the troops, he was instantly shot. A general beat to arms ensued, the militia were called out, but they, as also a promiscuously armed population (as various in its character as its color) joined the military, and by five o'clock in the evening, this armed multitude was in possession of the town, when patroles and guards were immediately established to prevent individual plunder and violence.——The Governor and the heads of the Provincial Government, had taken refuge in the principal fort, which was given up without opposition early the following morning to the popular party. On the morning of the 9th March, the Governor and his suit embarked for Rio Janeiro, being also permitted to carry his personal property along with him.

The tidings of the revolution spread from the town to the interior, with the rapidity of lightning, and inspired the most enthusiastic joy among the proprietors and planters, who were daily arriving in town for the purpose of declaring their unalterable adherence to the popular cause. Those who held public situations either civil or military under the former government where among the first to come forward and tender their adhesion to their new rulers.

With the exception of the colonel of artillery and the aid de camp before spoken of no person of any note was killed: a few lives were lost among the straggling parties unconnected with the main body, caused rather by thoughtlessness and imprudence than from a deliberate wish to commit violence: but as soon as the government was framed, every precaution was taken to protect persons and property, and all arms were collected and put into the possession of the government.

On the 13th March, perfect harmony and tranquility prevailed: but Portuguese property or vessels were not allowed to leave the port.—Preparations were making to place the forts and other points of defence in an effective state, and the pay of the military was considerably augmented.

It is believed that as soon as they may deem it expedient to adopt a permanent system of government, they will chuse that of the United States for their model. In the mean time they have forwarded despatches to our government which are understood to contain a minute narrative of their proceedings and views; soliciting an acknowledgment of their independence, and inviting an intercourse with them upon the most liberal and friendly terms. Similar communications have also been forwarded to London, for the consideration of the British government.

The Genuine Japan Varnish,
FOR BOOTS, SHOES, &c.
J. BYRNE,

Respectfully informs his friends and the public, that he has commenced the manufacture of the real JAPAN VARNISH for boots, shoes, carriage harnessing, ladies morrocco shoes, &c.

This inestimable composition unrivalled for its superior excellence, as well as being beneficial to the leather, produces the most beautiful and shining jet black ever beheld.

Its qualities have perhaps never before been concentrated in any other composition. It acts as an emolient, rendering the leather soft, pliant and durable—Is not subject to turn foetid as other compounds do—Is suitable to all climates and seasons—When polished, will not soil the whitest linen, and the cost of purchase is four fold repaid in the durability imparted to the leather by the lubricating quality of the Varnish.

Gentlemen sensible of the good effects of personal appearance will give this a decided preference to any thing ever before offered to the public.

The Japan Varnish is put up in Jars at 50 cents each, with proper directions for using, with the makers name affixed in his own chirograph to the label on each jar, and sealed on the cork with wax impressed with the initials J. B.

Sold at Byrne's Umbrella manufactory, Fourth street—Pittsburgh—where all orders will be gratefully received and punctually executed and a liberal allowance given to retailers.

HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES, from the first settlement as English Colonies, in 1607, to the year 1808, or the thirty third year of their Sovereignty and Independence,

By DAVID RAMSAY, M. D.

Continued to the Treaty of Ghent, by SAMUEL STANHOPE SMITH, D D. L. L. D. and other literary gentlemen. In 3 vols. 8 vo.

Extract from the Analectic Magazine, for Jan. 1817.

"We have not transcribed this title page with a view to give at present, a detail of what the volume contains Every body is acquainted with the unfortunate event which terminated at once the life and the historical career of Dr. Ramsay: and our design in this notice is merely to contribute our mite towards making it as generally known, that his history of the United States is now in the course of publication, and forms almost the only legacy that was left by the author to a family of no less than eight children

The present volume (first) is introduced with a Biography, (extracted from our Journal) and its other contents are the civil history of the United States, while they were yet Colonies. We hope there is no necessity of appealing to the patriotism of our countrymen, in behalf of the only systematic history which has ever been written of the American Republic. We would not be understood to recommend any book solely on this account: but the powers of Dr. Ramsay are sufficiently known, and we think the circumstances under which his history is published, should form a part of the motives for encouraging the work"
